TENNIS, 'ANYONE'?

No summer recreation program, except baseball.

So, interested tennis players in the learning stages or wanting to improve, from 8 through adult, are invited to note interest in summer evening classes, probably Monday and Wednesday evenings under the lights at the Yoe Courts.

Those meagre, but aggressive court talents of 112 will be meted out, however they might be, toward a tennis program in the Cameron area, some summer tournaments, perhaps a permanent organization that can foster greater interest in the sport in high school, tournament and club.

We'll need help. New nets are up at Yoe Courts. If the turnout is anything like it was a couple of summers ago, this time expanded to adults, we might need another evening to keep a program going. Maybe the school will put in some extra lights.

Just make note of a registration evening, Monday, May 31, at Yoe Courts, from about 6 p.m. on. Groups will be divided by age, ability, availability. Some players who would like to help could.

Weekend play will be reserved for some kind of mini-tournaments among more experienced players, for ranking in juniors and adult competition, men and women. Tournaments would start later in the summer. Emphasis will be on court fundamentals, singles and doubles.

If interested, contact The Herald or 112, whichever. Bring own racket, shoes, tennis balls, if you will. So far, I know of little or no funding for the program.

It's a great individual sport.

Reuters Service Spans World; Now In Herald

The Herald is now one of more than 60 U.S. newspapers with complete world-wide coverage from Reuters, the world's first international news service.

Special features for non-daily newspapers are featured by Reuters and The Herald is a new subscriber to this service.

Features are displayed on "The World and Milam County" page in the Monday edition and also on pages of the Thursday issue. The newsfeatures range from drouth conditions in Hong Kong to a report on Japanese major league baseball teams.

It all began in 1851 when Baron Reuter used pigeons to bridge a wire communications gap between Aachen and Brussels. Today, Reuters is acknowledged as the foremost news agency for coverage of international news.

Reuters wires, controlled by skilled editors using computers, can circle the earth more than four times and deliver news flashes in seconds.

In the field, about 300 full-time correspondents, assisted by over 800 part-time reporters file between 600,000 and 700,000 words a day of general news, sports and economic reports into London from 183 countries and territories overseas.

Police Investigate Breakin Attempt

Cameron police are investigating an attempted breakin at McLane Red and White supermarket. The attempt was apparently made during Sunday night.

The interior of the store was damaged by rainwater that leaked through the hole in the roof made by the thieves, but they were unable to get into the store through the hole.

Water damaged the store ceiling at the front of the store.

Storm Victims Say 'Thanks'

Springhill, La.
May 15, 1971

To the Mayor and Employees of Cameron,

We want to take this opportunity to express our sincere appreciation to the Mayor and employees of Cameron for their kind assistance after the storm early Sunday morning, May 9th.

When we first saw the large limb on top of our car we didn't see how we could possibly get out from underneath. Thanks to their cooperation and assistance we were able to return home that afternoon as planned.

ONE OF THE FIRST STUDENTS at St. Anthony's School reminisces during a farewell dinner for the school's teachers. J. T. Parma, center, was among the first students when the school opened 75 years ago. Charles Riola, PTC president, and Sister Mary Joseph, principal, share memories with Mr. Parma. The school will close at the end of this school year.

St. Anthony's School Closing After 75 Years

A farewell dinner Sunday night at Simon George Hall marked the end of an era in St. Monica's Parish-- the closing of St. Anthony's School.

After 75 years of existence the school will close after the end of this school term. Lack of teachers is the main reason for closing.

The school started in February of 1896, when the Sisters of Divine Providence came to teach school, according to a history of St. Monica's Church compiled by J. T. Parma of Cameron.

Parma was one of the first pupils to attend the school.

The first classes were held in the sisters' house since there was no school building. The sisters used one of their living rooms as a schoolroom.

"The children on the opening day of school were treated to lemonade and candy," Parma recalls. He also said the children could smell dinner cooking, and could tell what would be served for the noon meal.

In 1902 under the management of Father Bienaman a $1400 St. Anthony's school was built. Parma recalled a special day in 1904, when the sisters taught the children skits, songs, and drills, which they performed during an outing at "Hollas Platform," three miles west of Cameron.

Remembering early days at the school, Parma told of using a hickory tree as first base. The rectory now stands at that place. "Our baseballs were rubber, rags and old discarded insides of real baseballs," he said.

"Baseball bats were broom sticks and now and then a real baseball bat, that is, if money was available. The price of a real baseball bat at that time was 10 to 15 cents."

In 1935 contract was let for a new school to be built of brick. It had an enrollment of 135 pupils and was taught by four Sisters of Divine Providence.

In June of 1967 an addition to the school building was built at a cost of $60,000. Enrollment had increased and a schoolroom building from the old Pettibone School was purchased, but this had provided only temporary relief.

The school at one time taught ten grades, including two years of high school. This was reduced to eight grades and then to six.

This year, 98 students were enrolled.

School officials noted that it was not a lack of interest or students that has forced closing of the school. A shortage of teaching nuns exists and no teachers could be obtained for the school.

St. Anthony's is the only non-tuition parochial school left in the state.

The dinner Sunday night honored the teachers and principal, Sister Ann Joseph Wagner. Teachers are Sister Frances Helen Mosser, Sister Lucretia Wolf, Mrs. E. P. Werner, Mrs. R. G. McLeod, Mrs. Peggy Galbreath, and Mrs. R. L. Brown.

Rains Boost Ag Prospects

Recent rains have put a substantial dent in the months-long Central Texas drouth and things are looking up for Milam County cattlemen.

However, more rain is needed to fill depleted stock tanks and replace subsurface moisture lost during the dry period.

County Agent J. D. Moore said there is "marked improvement" in prospects for forage -- and cattlemen were happy with the recent showers.

It is too early to tell what prospects are for the north west part of the county, where hail pounded grain and cotton crops recently. Cotton has been replanted and grain shredded.

Rainfall so far this spring is still below normal for the Central Texas area. According to the state weather services, normal rain for the first five months is about 15 inches.

April rainfall measured in Cameron totaled 1.51 inches and for May 4.32 inches. This added to the November through March rainfall totals 6.70, far below the normal measurement.

Auction reports show the sales of cattle and calves are back to normal, after runs of up to 1,458 during April, when cattlemen were culling herds to keep feed expenses down.

Local cattlemen said moisture so far is adequate for spring growth of pastures, although oats and other small grains were "short" because of the dry winter.

Juvenile Counseling Possible For County

Counseling for troubled juveniles and their parents is now a possibility in Milam County according to Bascom Hodges, corrdinator with the State Mental Health Dept.

Hodges met with County Judge O. B. Harden Monday to discuss a counseling and psychological testing program for the county. He had met earlier with faculty from the Rockdale schools who were interested in obtaining a regular counseling service for youths in that school district.

Hodges said there were several possibilities open to the county and that under a new Senate bill school districts can buy diagnostic work for students. Hodges suggested that a weekly or monthly clinic might be set up by the Cameron and Rockdale Schools with office space provided at the courthouse.

He said the Bell County Mental Health and Retardation Center had expressed their interest in a program with Milam County and said the Bell County center "is one of the best in the State."

The Bell County center employs four fulltime psychologists, three fulltime social workers and one fulltime psychiatrist. Hodges said they could probably send a team to Milam County on a regular basis to establish a clinic here.

He said the Bell County unit also worked with the juvenile courts of counties in the Central Texas Council of Governments. This is funded by a federal grant.

Judge Harden said it was difficult to estimate how many juveniles might benefit from a mental health clinic.

As juvenile court judge he said he had heard 33 charges against Milam County juveniles last year. A breakdown of cases showed 13 charged with theft; 1 with disobedience (truancy or run away); 8 with immoral conduct; 9 for malicious mischief (arson, vandalism, fighting); and 2 for liquor violations.

Harden said that one juvenile offender had received psychological testing at the Bell County Mental Health center.

Hodges said that Milam County had an unusually large adult population percentage requiring treatment at the State Mental Hospital in Austin. He said that last year the hospital had accepted 25 new admissions from Milam County and 14 re-admissions.

Hodges said alcohol and drug abuse were listed for 11 of the admissions from Milam County, 6 had illnesses connected with aging and 8 were schizophrenic.

Hodges indicated that the counseling for juveniles would be available through the schools, but that membership in the Central Texas Council of Governments would probably be necessary for a more comprehensive program.

To date Milam County Commissioners have shown little interest in joining CTCOG headquartered in Bell County. Some unofficial inquires have been made about joining the council of governments at Bryan Judge Harden said. Hodges said they also have a mental health clinic.

Johnson Heirlooms Date To 1830

William Drayton Paden (Mrs. Johnson's grandfather), was planning to be married and had bought a suit to wear for the wedding ceremony. But Civil War broke out, Paden joined the Confederate States army and the suit was packed away. When Yankee soldiers entered his home town in Mississippi, his sister hid the wedding suit under pieces of a patchwork quilt she was making. After the soldiers left, the patchwork pieces were found, but the suit was gone.

The quilt is one of many family herilooms, many with accompanying stories, that will be on display at the Johnson home.

Paden was the first of his family to live at the Crockett Street address. He was born in 1823 in Greenville, South Carolina and grew up in Mississippi. In 1876 he and his wife, the former Sallie Montgomery Frierson of Mississippi, moved to Milam County and bought 100 acres of land. Two years later he bought the land where Mrs. Johnson's home now stands, and built a one story house with wide veranda stretching across the front.

He was named clerk of the Milam County Court in 1887. Later he entered the notary public, insurance, real estate and loan business with his son, William F. Paden.

Paden lived in the original house until his death in 1971. His son Will lived there a short time and later his daughter Kate and her husband Robert McLane moved in with their two daughters and son.

In 1925 the old home was torn down and the present home was built by Robert McLane. Glass on the back entrance door was saved from the first house and the bell on the northside entrance came from the original home. The iron hitching post on the south side of the house once held the reins of William Paden's white horse 'John'.

Folk Fete visitors will find the dining room table set with Mrs. Robert McLane's Haviland china, crystal and silver. From the den they will be invited to view the enclosed north garden where landscaping includes giant 100 year old oak trees and a picturesque bridge.

In the downstairs bedroom oak furniture, dated 1900, includes a massive dresser with ornately framed 5' x 6' mirror.

From the stairway visitors will have their best view of an antique French tapestry on one entry hall wall.

In the 'children's room' upstairs a 141 year old infants dress, worn most recently by Mrs. Johnson's great-great niece, will be on display. Other heirlooms of interest are a childs wicker rocker and a pioneer style bonnet.

Displayed in another upstairs bedroom is the 1895 wedding dress worn by Mrs. Robert McLane and a shawl worn by her mother.

History is recorded in many ways. At the J. Earl Johnson home family treasures tell of a Scottish family in pre-civil war South Carolina and Mississippi, their move to Texas and the descendents contributions to the religious, civic and business life of Milam County.

Mrs. Johnson's Dutch Colonial home at 100 N. Crockett is one of five Cameron homes that will be open to the public from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. June 12 during Folk Fete.

FOLK FETE BELLES pose at the front entrance to the Dutch Colonial home of Mrs. J. E. Johnson at 100 North Crockett. The house, with a display of antique furnishings, china, clothes and pictures, will be open to the public from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, June 12. Folk Fete Belles will be at each of the five pilgrimage homes to lead tours and give brief descriptions of furnishings. Photo by Charles Drobena.

'Partisan Of Principle'....

. . ."He would always be a partisan of principle". . .

And the 37th President appraised the performance of Lyndon B. Johnson even before he became the 36th President.

President Nixon noted this "partisanship" beyond party in dedicatory remarks at the remarkable LBJ Library on the Austin Campus of the University of Texas.

The podium held several of the dignitaries of both major parties. The audience was equally bi-partisan in great and near-great representation.

It was perhaps a preamble to the way bi-partisanship may well carry the renomination for President Nixon and his election over a disarray of Senatorial Democratic candidates whose collective profile makes choosing a nominee difficult, if not impossible. And the polls reflect this.

If the U.S. Senate is an exclusive club, the incumbent and ex-Presidents would have to be more exclusive. This particular one-upmanship is devastating to any new Senator's election in view of the fact three immediate past presidents also were senators. And Lyndon Johnson and Richard Nixon, because of the times in which we live, rely on power of presidential continuity to help sustain confidence in times of trouble for authority.

A sense of mutuality was evident among the 36th and 37th Presidents. They have the mutuality of serving with the 34th President, Dwight Eisenhower; they have the mutuality of competing and losing to the 35th President, John F. Kennedy; they have the mutuality of coming to power amidst the turmoil of assassination or abdication in these times.

So it is easy for President Nixon to assess his predecessor as a "partisan of principle", based also on Mr. Johnson's performance on great issues as majority leader in the Senate when Eisenhower was in the White House and when Mr. Nixon was vice-president, a job both he and Mr. Johnson were elected to.

Evermore, continuity will be a theme for both major parties as they read the concern polls show at the cleavage between Senatorial presidential aspirants and much of a post-Vietnam United States.

American public opinion now is for our getting out of Vietnam, which the doves see as recognition of their basic resistance to our Viet involvement. But they misread, and probably do in the number, public concern for immediate attack on domestic issues, in a sense a new war when Americans are tired of division and irresolution over a foreign war. Americans want some peace of mind.

Presidents, present and past, are in the unique position of knowing more of the collective will of people, because they have confronted it during presidential tenure. They are older in this exposure, regardless of chronology. They assess more and judge less, because their names go on whole movements, success or failure, less likely to be forgotten than some bill passed in the Senate.

President Nixon could appreciate the sweep of history ensconced in the LBJ Library, $2 million of which was donated by the Johnsons, the rest from U of T building funds. He was the protege of Eisenhower whose presidential timbre was built in World War II while Dick Nixon and Lyndon Johnson both were in the Navy, a branch served in also by John Kennedy.

So continuity and exclusivity are there, emblazoned by President Nixon's "partisan of principle" observation. A host of political possibilities sat on that stage or watched. And it is a good estimate that 1972 well may see this continuity in action.

Adoption Of Amendment 4 'A Great Step Forward'

By Vern Sanford

Voters were in an antagonistic mood toward three proposed changes in the Texas constitution last week, but they approved one amendment termed "a great step forward for Texas cities and towns."

Down the drain went proposals to set up a state commission on officials' ethics and legislative pay, to increase the welfare ceiling and to permit constitutional amendments to be submitted in special sessions.

Whether welfare defeat will mean early cuts in assistance to the needy is the subject of sharp disagreement. It's a cinch legislators will get no early pay raise, although they can adopt their own code of ethics by statute.

Amendment adopted creates a $100 million bond fund for construction of city or regional sewage treatment facilities.

Texas Water Quality Board Chairman Gordon Fulcher, Atlanta newspaper publisher, said adoption of the bond amendment is a "stride we very much hoped to make in order to reach our goal of meeting statewide water quality standards by 1975."

Clean water goals, said Fulcher, cannot be achieved until cities improve the quality of sewage discharges into rivers and streams. Financing has been a major drawback for municipalities.

Amendment provides for a state matching grants program to make available on loan basis 25 per cent of the eligible cost of sewage treatment plant construction.

With the state program, federal grants (now only 33 per cent) can increase to about 50 per cent. That leaves cities with only 25 per cent of a project cost to bear immediately.

Fulcher said he is hopeful that cities will move forward with the "greatest of haste" to take advantage of additional financial aid.

OIL ALLOWABLE CUT

Statewide oil allowable for June has been cut to 75.4 per cent of potential, lowest market demand factor since August.

Railroad Commission set the factor after four of 14 major crude purchasers asked for less oil, three asked for more, and seven requested the same level for June as in May.

New allowable will permit maximum production of 3,606,943 barrels of crude daily. This is a decrease of 68,913 barrels below the May level, with 77.2 per cent of the potential factor.

Actual production is expected to be about 3,344,000 barrels daily, nearly what major purchasers requested.

Reduction was the second in a row, after allowable remained at 81.1 percent for three straight months. Last June's market demand factor was only 59 percent.

NEW PARKS OPEN

Seven new state parks will be available for use this summer, but some of them are suited only for "roughing it."

Three of the parks are restricted to day use only. They are Pedernales Falls near Johnson City, Hueco Tanks near El Paso and Dinosaur Valley near Glen Rose.

No water supply is available at any of the three, and picnic tables and toilets are the only facilities.

Public access at New Galveston Island State Park is restricted to the beach area. Picnicking is allowed at Copper Breaks State Park in Hardeman County, but there is no water and few facilities.

Camping is allowed at Lake Arrowhead State Park in Archer County, but no water is available.

Most completely developed of the new tracts are Nail's Creek and Birch Creek units of Somerville State Park near Brenham. All of the new parks, with the exception of Copper Breaks and Galveston Island, have a one-dollar-per-vehicle entrance fee.

COURTS SPEAK

Supreme Court in 20 minutes reversed a district judge and held that a legislator-lawyer is entitled to automatic postponement of a case in which he represents a client during a legislative session.

Supreme Court ordered a new trial in the case of an Eastland turkey farmer who is suing an insurance company for collapse of a steel barn following a snow storm. Insurance company is fighting the $7,450 claim, contending that the building collapse was partially caused by the snow storm and such damage is not covered by its policy.

Court of Criminal Appeals affirmed the 10-year probated sentence of a Dallas man for shooting two Dallas police officers in 1968.

AG OPINIONS

Tuition equalization grants by the state to students at private colleges would not violate the constitution, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin held in a new opinion. Martin said the grants, proposed in a bill before the Legislature, would not be counter to the separation of church and state doctrine.

In other recent opinions, Martin held that:

*Tax assessor - collector when designated by an independent school district to assess its taxable property at a greater rate of value than for state and county purposes has no choice but to comply. School district is expected to appoint its own board of equalization.

*The penal code prevents renewal of a contract with a school teacher who has not taught for two or more years prior to a brother's being elected to the school board.

*Bill allowing personal checks of bonded cigarette distributors to be treated as cash payments by the state treasurer when received for payment of cigarette stamps or meter settings is constitutional. Requirement that all cigarettes be stamped by all distributors within a stated period is proper exercise of legislative discretion in collecting state revenue.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

75,000 YOUNG PEOPLE DEMONSTRATE IN VT.

SENATOR GEORGE D. AIKEN (Vt.) ". . .Last Saturday, a successful demonstration occured in my State.

"This demonstration -- called Green-Up Day-- was put on largely by our young people and extended into every community throughout the length and breadth of Vermont.

"Young people rose early last Saturday morning -- I understand about 75,000 of them -- and began scattering over the highways of the State -- interstate, State Federal and local roads.

"By 9:30 a.m., every mile of the interstate highway was CLOSED TO THE TRAVELING PUBLIC, WITH STATE POLICE GUARDING THE ACCESS ROADS. They remained closed until 12:30 p.m. when they were again opened to the public.

"During this time, what did the young people of Vermont do?

"They collected virtually every glass bottle, every metal can, every scrap of paper which had been cast onto the roadsides by careless and unthinking people.

"The result was that by Saturday evening Vermont was undoubtedly the cleanest State in the Nation. . .Several hundred thousand cans were collected which filled five huge tractor trailer trucks.

"The cans will be taken to Albany, N.Y., where they are being put through a recycling process for eventual reuse.

"The glass containers are being shipped to Dayville, Conn. for recycling. . .

"By Saturday morning Green-Up Day officials discovered that they needed more bags to collect the litter.

"So some 12,000 additional bags were purchased and air-dropped by the Civil Air Patrol to key airports throughout the State of Vermont.

"Green-Up Day involved many citizens and many industries -- State and local governments participated by donating trucks to pick up the refuse. . .

"I understand that Governor Sargent of Massachusetts sent an observer to watch the activities.

"What this country needs is more successful demonstrations like the one which occured in Vermont.."

Vermont was honored on May Day by the presence of the distinguished majority leader of the Senate (Mike Mansfield.)

SENATOR MIKE MANSFIELD (Mont.) ". . . The Senator from Vermont will recall that I made a suggestion that the other 47 contiguous States might do well to follow the example of Vermont and set aside at least 1 day each year as Green-Up Day."

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT

It will be noted that the young people and the Police co-operated to make Vermont a better place to live.-J.C.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editar:

One trouble with this country today is that people are too impatient.

I was reading just last night that when the six-cent postage stamp went to 8 cents, some post offices around the country didn't have any on hand and customers were made because they had to stick a 6 center on their letters and then add either 2 ones or one 2 center. I guess some people are too busy to be wasting their time like that, but they ought to slow down and realize that the only way the Post Office's Printing Plant in Washington had to get the new stamps out over the country was by mail and naturally that takes quite a while.

Some people are too impatient about getting ahead, forgetting that nowadays a penny saved is only a half-penny earned. Others say that a penny saved sometimes means the sales tax kitty was shortchanged.

I know one farm woman who's made because her husband hasn't planted this year's crop, and another who's made because hers hasn't planted last year's. You can always find something to get made about if you work at it.

Or take the Presidency. Regardless of how large a vote he went in with, sooner or later any President becomes the victim of wholesale criticizing and complaining, and this frequently gets under his skin. It shouldn't. Presidents ought to remember that most politicians and all tires wear thin after a while.

Everybody needs more patience. After all, New York wasn't polluted in one day.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

BRIEF GLORY

Sixteenth Street N.W. in Washington, D.C., enjoyed a brief moment of glory when Congress named it Avenue of the Presidents on March 4, 1913. Critics said the name was awkward and inappropriate, and on July 21, 1914, Congress restored the old name.

If we could just wrap it all up.

Litter is a complex problem. And solving it calls for understanding and united action.

1. Litter isn't caused by bottles or cans or convenience packaging. Litter is caused by the thoughtless man. The thinking man can stop it.
2. The natural first step is individual action. Let's all be a little more thoughtful. Let's make sure that we, ourselves, are not adding to the litter problem.
3. The thinking man takes active steps to keep his community clean. The tools are at hand.
4. The United States Brewers Association is ready to help you. We're working at the local and national levels to create greater public awareness. To attack apathy. To help Keep America Beautiful.
5. If we tackle this problem together we can soon have it all wrapped up. Write us today and we'll help your community develop a campaign against litter.

Ad Piracy

Poster ads for a circus were so eye-catching that a printer made up some copies—without asking anyone's permission. The owner of the circus promptly filed suit, charging infringement of copyright. But in court, the printer argued:

"Mere advertisements cannot be copyrighted. The Constitution says copyright is intended only for the 'useful arts'. That means something on a higher artistic level than just ads, which are plain commercialism."

Nevertheless, the court ruled that ads are indeed protectable by copyright and held the printer liable. The court said the Constitution drew no line between highbrow and lowbrow art.

In earlier years, many courts did draw such a line. But today, almost everywhere, ads are entitled to the same copyright protection as a book or a painting. Courts have recognized that a great deal of money and a great deal of talent are now going into the creation of ads.

It is still true, however, that a copyright won't stand up if the ad is dishonest. Thus:

A series of ads was developed by a sales agency, to be used by piano dealers. When one dealer began using the ads without permission, the agency sued him for copyright infringement.

But the judge refused to mix in, when he discovered that the ads were riddled with deceit.

"The law should extend its protection," he said, "only (to ads) that speak the truth."

Furthermore, only the specific details of an ad—the words, the drawings—are protected, not the general idea.

In another case a merchant advertised a contest in which people were supposed to write letters, telling why they liked to shop in his store.

Later, another merchant announced a contest along the same lines, but describing it in different language. Was this an infringement of copyright?

A court said no, since only the general idea had been copied. If general ideas were copyrightable, said the court, one person could stake out an entire field of thought and keep it as his own private monopoly.

Rep. Kubiak May Lose His District

Redistricting is the "last hurdle we will face before adjourning May 31," according to Rep. Dan Kubiak's weekly newsletter.

Kubiak said the current proposal is to give Falls County to the north district, Robertson County to the East District and Milam County to the west district.

He said he would "do everything possible to save our area . . . When one votes against the extravagant tax bill and against the 'pork barrel' spending Appropriations bill, problems like this result."

In other legislative news, the House defeated 74 to 68 a bill to increase the state's share of the Minimum Foundation Program for financing Texas public schools to 100 percent.

Currently the state provides 80 percent of the public education costs, and local districts provide 20 percent of the total costs.

Kubiak said he hoped somehow the bill could be salvaged before the May 31 closing of the session.

SBA REPRESENTATIVE

On Wednesday, June 2, Julian Cox, Loan Officer of the Small Business Administration, will be at the Bryan-College Station Chamber of Commerce from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. to discuss SBA's financial and management assistance programs.

County Agent's Notes

Systemic Cattle Grub Control

By J. D. Moore

Systemic insecticides for cattle grub control may be administered as dips, sprays, pour-ons, mineral mixtures or feed mixes.

Administer treatments between May 1 and September 1, preferably soon after May 1 for best results. Treatments after September 1 or August 1, are more likely to result in adverse side effects.

Do not treat animals for grub control and drench on the same day.

Detailed instructions for control of external parasites of livestock and poultry are found in bulletin MP-691. This publication is available at the county agents office.

The fly season is fast approaching and proper fly control can prevent a drop in milk production for the dairy herd.

Many ideal breeding places for flies can be found around most dairy facilities and in manure that may have been missed by the scraper or other cleaning methods.

Backrubbers are effective in controlling flies. This method requires little labor since they only need recharging every two to four weeks.

Place the device where cows are forced to walk under it once or twice each day. The exit lane from the milking parlor or barn is an ideal location.

The backrubber can be charged with a mixture of eight ounces of Ciodrin or .66 ounces of dichlorvous or .8 oz. of Coumaphos (Co-Ral) in one gallon of No. 2 diesel or light mineral oil.

Dust bags which are available commercially also work well. The dust bags may also be prepared at home utilizing burlap bags and charging them with the recommended mixtures.

Before buying any insecticide for fly control, read the container label to make sure it is approved for use on dairy cows. A residual insecticide must be used for fly control in resting pens and holding areas.

Fly Control - inside or outside of beef, dairy or poultry building, "Cygon", 1% spray mixture used at the surface dosage of 1 gallon of the 1 % solution to each 1,000 square feet should give good fly control. This is particularly true where Cygon has not been used.

Flies build up resistance to continued use of a given insecticide. It is suggested that producers change to another recommended insecticide when flies become difficult to control.

MAJOR CROP

Though Ceylon is the world's second largest producer of tea, exceeded only by India, its major export formerly was cinnamon. When the cinnamon trade dropped off, coffee plantations were started as a substitute, the National Geographic Society says. Not until blight destroyed coffee crops in the 1880's did tea become a major crop on the island.

4-H CLUB ACTIVITIES

By Danny Phillips

Milam County will send nine representatives to the State 4-H Roundup in College Station June 2-3 to participate in the State Judging Contests and Demonstrations. These contests are the climax of the year for many 4-H'ers as they compete with other 4-H'ers from all over the State.

This year Milam County will send two judging teams and one individual to the State Contest. The poultry judging teams consisting of David Ehler, Jerry Mueck, Ricky Richter, and Robert Riola have qualified after winning the District 8 Eliminations.

The team also participated in the Ft. Worth Poultry Judging Contest and won fourth place and a rosette. Ricky Richter, was 11th high individual and David Ehler was 9th high. They also participated in the Texas A&M Practice Contest.

A dairy cattle judging team from Milam County 4-H will also go to the State Contest. The team of Clyde Jistel, Joseph Jistel, Donald Fleming and Daniel Richardson will represent Milam County at the State Roundup Dairy Judging Contest.

This team won first place at the District Contest at Stephenville. Joseph Jistel was second high individual and Clyde Jistel tied for third high. This team got off to a late start but fared well in their first contest.

The only individual member going will be Martin Mueck. Martin will participate in the State Tractor Driving Contest. Martin is an "old hand" at this and hopes to capture the first place crown in this his final year. Martin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe P. Mueck of Cameron.

LAMBS

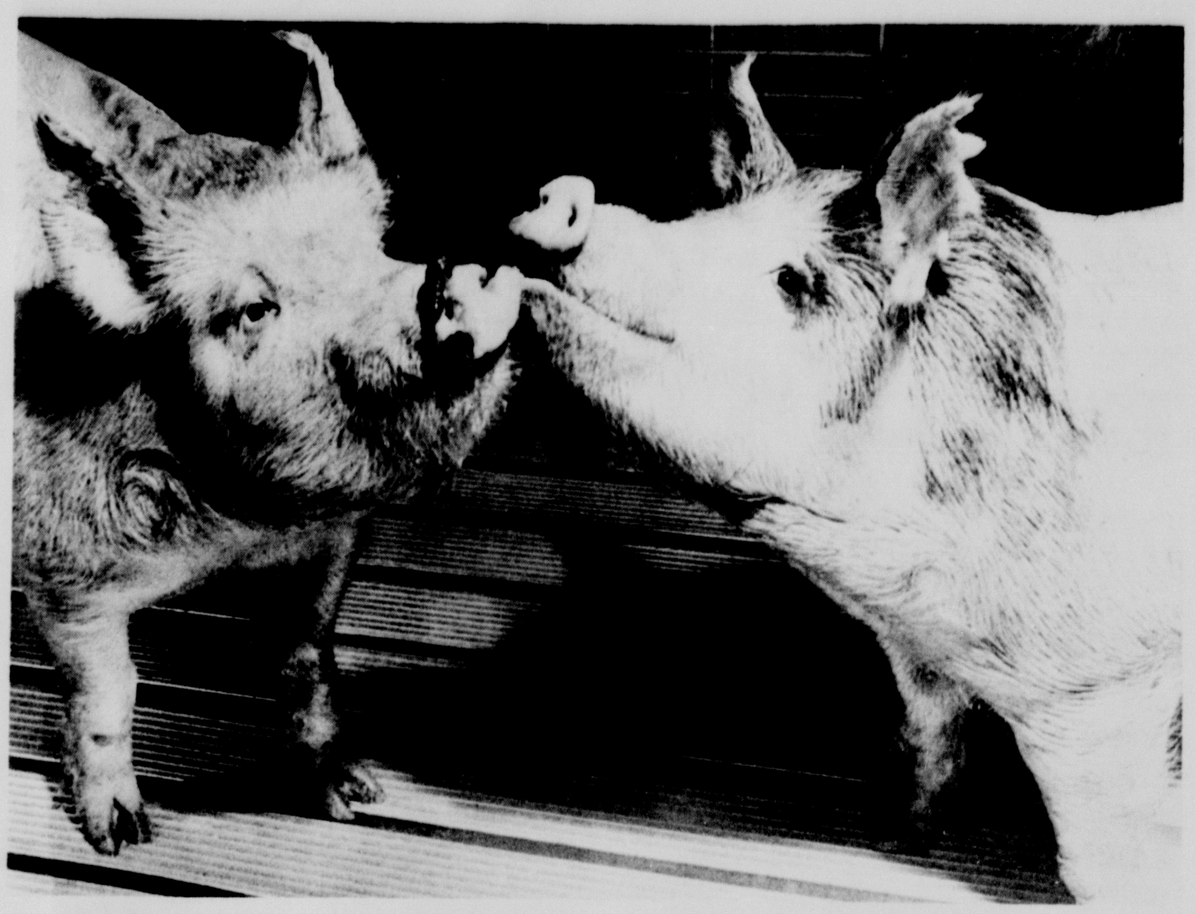
May and June are the months that 4-H'ers should be getting lambs for the coming year's show. This includes the county show and major shows. Several good lamb sales are going to take place in the coming weeks. I will be going to several of these and will be happy to purchase a lamb for you if you will let me know.

This type of project fits into the urban or rural scene, and for the rich, or not so rich. This type of project is rather inexpensive and doesn't require much space.

The feed bills aren't so high but good care and attention are essential to a good project. Boys and girls both make good prospects and it makes a good agricultural project for girls who wish to have one. If you have questions please call me at home or at the office. If you are interested I am interested in helping you.

Also, if you are interested in swine projects for the Waco or Dallas Show, now is the time to purchase these, too.



SQUEALING WITH DELIGHT, these two hogs revel in the comfort provided by Aluminum Company of America's newest farm product: Sooey Slats-- an aluminum flooring system for swine.

TP&L industrial consultants help bring new jobs to town

During 1970, more than 60 new industries were located in the area served by Texas Power & Light Company. When in full operation, they will offer more than 3,700 new job opportunities. And they will generate new purchases of goods and services and provide new tax dollars for the support of schools, police and fire protection and other essential community needs.

TP&L's Industrial Development Division, in cooperation with local Chambers of Commerce and other organizations, works continuously to tell industry about the advantages of plant locations in the area served by the Company.

New 'Sooey Slats' Flooring Offers Easy Maintenance

A new slatted flooring system that offers swine farmers installation convenience, easy maintenance and excellent sanitation is now available from Aluminum Company of America.

Termed "Sooey Slats," the system, which has undergone extensive tests at Texas A&M University's Demonstration Farm, consists of smooth-ribbed aluminum slats held in place by anchor straps and locking tabs.

Texas A&M University got in on the ground floor of Sooey Slat testing soon after expressing its interest in the possibility of using an Alcoa product.

A check by the management at Alcoa's Rockdale smelting plant with Alcoa's agricultural building products division in Pittsburgh revealed that Sooey Slat development was already underway. Near the end of 1970, Sooey Slats were installed in the nursery floor at the University Demonstration Farm -- the Stiles Foundation Farm at Thrall.

"Initial installations at several hog farms show that Alcoa Sooey Slats can readily handle the weight and action of full-grown hogs. The slats have the strength for long spans, thus reducing the number of hard-to-clean substructures. Rounded top corners prevent injury to hogs' feet," said Paul H. McConnaughey, Alcoa's manager - agricultural building product sales.

Because aluminum is nonporous, disease and maintenance problems are minimized. Hosing the floor with water after each production cycle is the only maintenance required.

Sooey Slats are much easier and generally cheaper to install than flooring systems made from other materials.

Aluminum anchors clamp slats into place and provide the slot dimension desired; then all members are locked together with an aluminum tab. Use of conventional materials for substructures adds to the simplicity and economy of installation.

"The days of the two-hogs-in-a-wallow installation are gone," said Mr. McConnaughey. "Modern, efficiently managed and maintained swine farms have taken their place. With these newer installations, nothing can be more important than sanitation and economy. Alcoa Sooey Slats offer both."

The Alcoa flooring system is available in two slat profiles: high profile, spanning eight feet; and low profile, spanning four feet. Each is availabe in widths of three and one-half inches and four and one-half inches.

For more information about Alcoa's livestock flooring system for swine, write Aluminum Company of America, 679 Alcoa Building, Pittsburgh, Pa. 15219.

Church Rites Unite Synatzske - Heitman

The First Baptist Church was the setting Saturday evening, May 15, for the wedding of Miss Cheryl Kay Heitman and David Ray Synatzske.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Heitman and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Synatzske of Rogers.

The Rev. J. E. Lafferty performed the double ring ceremony against a background of fern trees and brass candelabra holding white tapers.

Mrs. C. W. Bradbury was organist and Mrs. J. E. Lafferty, sololist, offered nuptial selections.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Bobby Heitman, wore a softly flowing silhouette of candlelight organza and venise lace. The richness of lace lavished the bodice and capped the full bishop sleeves, caught to circles of lace at the wrists. Matching medallions of lace adorned her Camelot headpiece holding a multilayered veil of imported illusion, drifting the length of the chapel train and caught to a bow marking the high-rise waist.

She carried a colonial bouquet of cream colored roses intermingled with yellow sweetheart rosebuds, English ivy and babys breath. Cream colored ribbons and loops of pearls fell the length of the skirt. Her only jewelry was a diamond necklace, a gift from the groom.

The maid of honor, Miss Doris Meek of Temple, wore a pastel yellow dotted organza dress fashioned with scooped neck-line. White lace and yellow velvet ribbon outlined the high waist and sleeves. The back was finished with a matching velvet bow extending to the hemline. She carried a basket of yellow and white daisy mums and English ivy.

Bridesmaids were Miss Linda Synatzske, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Ronnie Nash of Silsbee, Mrs. Charles Jones of Brownwood, and Miss Judi White. They wore matching dresses of pastel blue dotted organza and carried baskets of blue and white daisy mums and English ivy. Dior bows in their hair completed their costumes.

Jamie Allan of Freeport was flower girl. Her dress was fashioned like those of the bridesmaids. She carried flower petals in a white basket adorned with daisies and tulle. Jimmy Baker of Baytown was ringbearer.

Best man was Larry Jungmann of Buckholts and groomsmen were Jerry Heitman, brother of the bride, Mike Mayfield of College Station, Mike Heintze of Burlington and Ken Ballinger of Fort Worth.

Serving as ushers were Johnny Bailey, Charles Jones of Brownwood, Glen Psencik of Rogers and Robert Trampota of Temple.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride. Members of the bridal party and parents of the couple formed the receiving line. Mrs. Bobby Heitman of Seabrook registered guests. Other members of the house-party were Mrs. Pat Lavine and Miss Betty Whitley of Waco, Miss Susan Philips of Austin, Miss Lynn Rebner of Pasadena, Miss Sue Kibbons of Houston, Mrs. Glenn Stock of Bryan, Mrs. Mike Mayfield of College Station and Miss Anne Looney.

The bride's table was covered with a white imported cut-work cloth. The bridal bouquet, at the base of a silver candelabra holding white tapers, formed the centerpiece.

The groom's table, covered in cream linen, was centered with a holder and candle and baskets of blue and white daisy mums.

Following a short wedding trip the couple will live in College Station where the groom is a senior at Texas A&M University majoring in wildlife science. He was graduated from Rogers High School in 1968 and attended the University of Texas in Arlington.

A 1969 graduate of Yoe High School, the bride is a junior at Sam Houston State University majoring in business education.

Parents of the bridegroom were hosts on Friday evening for a rehearsal dinner at the Texan Cafe. The couple presented gifts to their attendants.

Survey Favors Jail For Drunk Drivers

The survey was made by Don Cates, attorney for Texas Alcohol Narcotics Education (TANE).

Those responding to the survey were also in favor of the "no-knock" bill which would authorize peace officers to break any door or window without giving notice when armed with proper warrants.

Respondents in a state-wide survey were overwhelmingly in favor of mandatory jail sentences and driver license suspension for drunk drivers, a chemical test law to determine DWI guilt, and for increasing the penalty for possession of LSD.

The question on which respondents were most evenly divided was on lowering the penalty for first offense possession of marijuana. There were 1,043 in favor of lowering the penalty, and 1,386 against.

Survey questionnaires were mailed to 71,000 people across the state. Responses totalled 2,538.

CONDORS RIDE

At the climax of a fiesta held each year near Cuzco, Peru -- ancient capital of the Inca Empire -- large condors are tied to bulls for a wild ride around the plaza, the National Geographic Society says. Released unharm to fly again, the birds represent the triumph of the Indian spirit over Spanish conquerors.

LEST WE forget
God has a destiny for America, and only eyes of Faith can read that destiny. Were it not so, all those who have, and will pay with their lives the last full measure, will have died in vain.
We need only to look at our cemeteries to have our manhood shocked and our Americanism awakened. Our allegiance would be strengthened by that look. We can never recompense for the supreme sacrifice and heartache the spilling of each drop of blood caused. But every American should bow his head in shame when he dares not to salute our Grand Old Flag.
Please let us, this day, rededicate ourselves and say a benediction for all those who have and will lay themselves, in our behalf, between our wonderful country and all her foes.
Lest We Forget.

Learn Water Skiing Basics

AUSTIN

Like everything else, expertise in water skiing is the result of practice, but listening to the right advice can help the beginner before he gets wet, according to George Cook, director of Water Safety Services for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

For example, the beginner can learn the basic vocabulary which passes between skier and driver get a message past the roar of an outboard, a system of hand signals has been devised. They are:

Thumbs up -- boat faster
Thumbs down -- boat slower.
Thumb and forefinger in shape of an "O" -- speed OK.
Circle finger overhead and point -- turn in direction indicated.
Raise hand with fingers spread -- stop.
Slap thigh with hand -- return to dock or shore.
Draw hand or finger across throat -- cut motor.
Clasp hands over head while treading water -- I'm OK (after fall).

Two audible signals are required by skiers -- "In gear" when you want the slack taken out of the rope and "Hit it, " when you are ready for the boat operator to open the throttle.

There are several common sense procedures which are ignored by some. One is wearing a ski belt or life jacket while skiing. Even for experts it is difficult to recover skis and rope and prepare to get up again after a fall while one is sinking.

Also, avoid wrapping the rope around any part of your body. It could cause a nasty and rather painful burn.

It is important for a skier to be relaxed. A relaxed skier learns faster and takes fewer spills.

Taking spills is part of water skiing, but it is surprising how often a skier can avoid falling if he fights to stay on top. Too often a skier feels he is going to fall and simply resigns himself to a dunking.

If you must fall there are some tricks to learn. Never fall forward. At speeds below 25 MPH, lean to the side or back when you feel yourself falling. When you release the towline you will fall in the direction of the lean.

As you fall cover your face with your forearms to cushion the impact and to protect your face. Never attempt to dive as you fall.

At speeds more than 25 MPH the skier should somersault or roll with the fall. One way he can do this is to tuck his head to his chest and roll into a ball. Rolling not only controls the fall but blunts the impact as well. It is best to be relaxed when you fall.

After giving the "OK" sign with both hands clasped above your head, hold a ski vertically to let other boats know you are down.

Loan Funds Boosted For Rural Water Systems

An economic boost toward the development of rural Texas was announced last week by J. Lynn Futch, State Director of the Farmers Home Administration in Temple.

Futch pointed out that an additional $12,600,000 has been released for the current fiscal year, through June 30, for rural water and sewer system loans in Texas.

He emphasized the need for rural residents desiring water and sewer system loans to move quickly. The State Office of Farmers Home Administration must have completed loan applications for review and approval before June 15, 1971.

Futch also said that more money would be available for the new fiscal year of 1972 than was available in this present fiscal year of 1971.

Jerry Johnson of Nacogdoches, president of the Texas Association of Rural Water Corporations, urged existing systems to take advantage of the current supply of loan money.

"Many systems that have been operating for several years now need additional loan money to provide new consumer service and now is the time to take advantage of the $12.6 million allocation for our state," commented Johnson.

Rural residents desiring additional information concerning the loan funds should contact their county Farmers Home Administration supervisor or the Texas Association of Rural Water Corporations in Austin.
